NEEDS VS. WANTS

We all have things we need and things we want. However, depending on who we are and where we live, these might be different than someone else's wants and needs.

There are some things all humans need in order to live. For example, in order to survive, we all need air, water and food. These are called survival needs, which means we cannot live without them. There are other kinds of needs as well - things we don't need to survive, but we do need them to live our daily lives. These are called daily needs and include things like shoes and clothing.

Everything else that's not a survival or daily need is something we simply want. For instance, while we need shoes to protect our feet, we don't need fifty pairs of shoes in different styles and colors.

So how do you decide if you can buy more shoes, or a new game or bike? It can be a hard decision to make, especially if you only have a certain amount of money to spend.

That's where creating a spending budget can help. Turn the page to learn more.

BUDGET

(bud-jet)

A plan for how to use your money.

Budget

<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> _____	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> _____
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> _____	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> _____
Total $ _____

BUDGET FOR NEEDS FIRST

Budgeting isn't particularly fun, but it is necessary to figure out how much money you have to spend for your needs and for your wants.

Let's practice. Let's say your parents give you a $25.00 allowance for the week. Fill in the missing blanks, and find out if you'll have enough money to buy an extra pair of shoes.

Allowance money: $25.00

Needs

- Lunch money - $10
- Book for class - $3
- Art supplies for homework - $4

Wants

- New shoes - $10

Now add up your Total Needs + Wants = $ _____

And subtract if from your allowance money = $ _____

What happened? Did you have enough money left over to buy your new shoes? If not, you may have to wait another week or until you get more allowance money to buy your shoes. What would have happened if you bought your shoes first? Then you wouldn't have had enough money left over to buy one of the things you need.

DUCK TAPE ZIPPER POUCH

Create your own custom-made zippered pouch with duck (or duct) tape!

What you need:

- Ziploc bag
- Patterned duck tape (standard and 1" wide)
- Scissors or utility knife
- Cutting mat

How to make your bag:

1. Make sure the zipper is closed and trim the bag (if necessary) to the size you'd like.
2. Cut a strip of duck tape that is slightly wider than your bag and apply the strip to the top edge of the bag. Continue to apply strips of tape on both sides of the bag until it is completely covered.
3. Trim away all of the excess tape on the sides of the bag.
4. Use 1" wide duck tape (or cut your tape in half lengthwise) to seal both the short sides and the bottom of the pouch. Just place half of the strip along the edge and fold it over the seam.
5. Trim away any excess and you're done!
